[Community Group Name] Brings New Film "We the People 2.0" to [City]

There is a growing movement for a
Second American Revolution to realize a true democracy

[City], [State]—[Group Name] is hosting a special screening of We the People 2.0 - The Second American Revolution at [Theater Name] on [Date] at [Time].

The documentary, presented by Tree Media and the Community Environmental Legal Defense Fund (CELDF), tells the story of people across the U.S. who have faced decades of environmental assaults - such as fracking and sludging of farmland - and what they are doing about it.

These communities recognize ecosystems at home and around the globe are collapsing under inherently unsustainable laws and governing structures – what many have called a “corporate state.” They come to understand why the system is stacked against them and the natural environment. The film shares how they are working with CELDF and organizing to stop these assaults in their own communities through rights-based laws, which ban the harms as a violation of rights.

These communities are laying the foundation for the sustainable future they envision. Further, they are joining together across states to advance democratic and environmental rights, building the next people's movement through Community Rights.
